

Highlights from this week

We have been learning about explorers that have made the incredible journey to the South Pole this week. We learnt about Shackleton and we also learnt about the solo journey made by Preet Chandi.

We have been busy making super art work based on Takashi Murakami and making amazing instruments out of all your super junk modelling items. Thank you!

Next week in Cherry class

Next week we will be learning about Malala Yousafzai. We will talk about how Malala wanted to go to school and why school is important for us. We will think about friendships and what qualities are needed to be a good friend. Kind hands are essential!

It looks like our potato harvest may be ready so we will have a little look to see if any new potatoes have grown. Over in our raised beds our wild flowers haven't flowered yet! We remain hopeful!

We will also look through our learning journals at all our special work and photos. We will talk about all the wonderful moments we have had as a class.
